Pastoral Perspective

STATEMENT FROM THE JESUIT CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON

June 24, 2022

The Society of Jesus in the United States welcomes the Supreme Court's decision to overrule Roe v. Wade.

Abortion is a massive injustice in our society, and today's ruling is a critical step toward the legal protection of all unborn children.

As we wrote in our 2018 pro-life statement Protecting the Least Among Us, "The most fundamental building block of a just social order is respect for human life. Until men and women individually and collectively make a profound commitment to the value and dignity of all human life, we will never find the true peace, justice and reconciliation God desires for us."

We also affirm our belief that building what Saint John Paul II called a "culture of life" requires a stronger social safety net than our country has today.

To be truly pro-life, we must support all women, expectant parents and their children by advocating for policies like universal health care, paid parental leave and a more equitable distribution of our country's abundant resources.

We approach this topic as pastors, scholars, social activists and educators. No part of our ministry is removed from the essential work of promoting and protecting the dignity of every child of God.

We pray that the Lord might continue to inspire our efforts and to help us always see the face of Christ revealed in each person, both before their birth and after it.

HELPING IMMIGRANTS BUILD A HAVEN AMID FEAR AND ANGER

By Amy Ketner

"But, Miss Amy, how can Jesus be Black?"

Startled by the question, I turned to the inquiring third-grader, wondering if I had misunderstood her Chilean Spanish or if she was making an insensitive joke. But in her face, I found deep sincerity. Montserrat genuinely wanted to know why this Jesus' skin tone did not match her own.

It was Semana Santa at a Catholic elementary in Santiago's poblaciones, where I was serving with the Jesuit Volunteer Corps. The student chosen to play Jesus in the school reenactment of the Last Supper was Elvis, a fourth-grader who was, indeed, Black. Elvis' family was one of thousands who had moved to Chile from the island of Hispaniola (Haiti and the Dominican Republic). Prior to their arrival, Chile's Black population had been nearly nonexistent.

The eyes of Montserrat beamed authentic curiosity, while her voice betrayed a rising defensiveness, as if fearing what it might mean if Jesus really could have been darker than she'd previously been led to believe. All around her, in the impoverished poblaciones where so many immigrants were settling, adult Chileans were also wrestling with changes. While they tried to be welcoming to their immigrant neighbors, many distrusted the Creole spoken on the streets and were frustrated at the new spicier food stands edging in among the panaderías and hot dog trucks.

Glares on the street and insults slurred in rapid-fire Spanish masked the fear these Chileans felt. Fear of losing the poblaciones' rich historical roots. Fear of the discomfort of communicating with their Creole-speaking neighbors. Fear that housing and employment opportunities could diminish. Fear that the world isn't exactly as they thought it was. For one little girl, it was the fear that maybe Jesus didn't look or speak like a Chilean after all.

Eight years later, at a Catholic parish in Michigan, I saw this same fear flash across the face of an elderly Irish American man as he pointed to Daris but kept eye contact only with me: "She's been here for four years and still hasn't learned English!"

Daris, one of the founding leaders of our immigrant women's Circles of Support, had just shared the story of her flight out of Guatemala with her two daughters. Her harrowing tale included escaping a gang-affiliated abusive husband, and being kidnapped and held for ransom by a cartel in Mexico, and later detained for weeks by U.S. immigration authorities.

Still, this man, let's call him Henry, latched on to one detail: Daris did not speak his language. He was so incensed that he had blocked out the rest of her story, which I had translated to the audience just minutes prior.

"Why didn't she just immigrate to another Spanish-speaking country?" Henry asked me, refusing to look at Daris. "Would you go to someplace where they didn't speak English if you had to move? Would you go to China?"

"Well, sir," I said. Deep breath. "You might recall from her story that she did try to go to a Spanish-speaking country — she fled to Mexico first — but her abusive ex-husband found her there. And it was in Mexico that she was kidnapped by cartels. She couldn't stay there." On the conversation went, my breaths deepening with every retort from Henry. In the silence of my car ride home, I replayed his insistence that, because our European ancestors had learned English, so too should Daris.

I thought of my great-grandma speaking Polish with her sisters and cousins, even though she had been born in the United States and spoke English fluently. I remembered stories I had been told of my quiet great-grandfather, who fled Hungary at the start of the First World War. At 19, he ran to a country he did not know, with a language he did not speak, so that he could safely start a family. He did this so that I might have life someday, just as Daris did for her children. He never did learn to speak English.

I thought of my Irish ancestors and wondered if they had ever met Henry's, the ones of whom he so passionately spoke. Did someone spew anger in their faces for speaking Gaelic, or English with a thick Irish brogue? For not assimilating quickly enough when they arrived to the United States?

When I was in high school, I attended a small youth group at my Catholic parish in Flint, Michigan. While we hailed from different high schools across the greater Flint area, we shared one thing in common: We were the misfits at our schools. The math club whiz, the anime artist, the painfully shy, the overly hyper, the goofballs. A second unspoken truth my friends and I shared was that we showed up to youth group religiously because it was the one place we could bring our full selves: unapologetically quirky, loud, silly, inquisitive, emotional, unique. We could be authentic without fear of glares in the hallway or insults whispered across the lunch table. (...)

Outside of my own family, this family of youth group friends was my first tangible experience of unconditional love and acceptance. As we broke open Scripture, it was not hard to imagine the affirming, loving community Jesus had started with his disciples.

When I went away to college at the University of Michigan, I found a similar, albeit bigger, family at the parish on campus, deepening my assurance that this open-armed, radical love was what Jesus was going for with his young friends. These community values and experiences became the bricks on which my Catholic beliefs still stand today.

And so, when I looked into Montserrat's anxious eyes, and later into Henry's indignant eyes, these past experiences of communal love pulsed through me. I wanted Elvis and Daris to know the unconditional love of a welcoming, adoptive family. I longed for them, as immigrants and outsiders, to find acceptance in the Catholic community, as I had many times before. I wanted to help them build a haven from the fear and anger that surrounds them in their adopted homelands.

More than anything, I ached to welcome the little girl who wondered how Jesus could be Black and the elderly man who questioned why an immigrant still spoke Spanish into our misfit family, too.

Amy Ketner serves as co-director of leadership development at Strangers No Longer, a Michigan-based grassroots network of Catholic parishes, schools and congregations welcoming immigrants as neighbors.

WHAT ARE YOU SEEKING?

CAN RCIA HELP?

Deep in our hearts, we have a longing to be closer to God, to feel that we have a home with him for all eternity. St. Augustine reminds us, "Our hearts are restless until they find rest in you."

The RCIA journey at St. Mary Student Parish is designed to help people hear and respond to God's loving call – and especially to his invitation for a deeper relationship with him in the tradition of the Catholic faith. The weekly sessions are designed for:

- ✠ Those who want to be baptized in the Catholic faith.
- ✠ Those who want to join the Catholic Church from another faith or another Christian tradition.
- ✠ Baptized Catholics who wish to receive the sacrament of Confirmation.

Throughout the year, participants in RCIA (the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults) are welcome to explore and ask questions as they discern where God may be leading them.

RCIA sessions will begin formally in September, but inquirers are welcome anytime to talk. There's no pressure or obligation, we are happy to meet with you personally to discuss where you are in this faith journey and what God might be calling you to explore.

For information or to schedule an appointment, please contact Fr Joe Wagner at jwagner@smspnewman.org

LGBT OUTREACH

3RD TUESDAY OF THE MONTH 7:00-8:30 PM

The LGBT group is sponsored by St. Mary Student Parish and meets monthly. Meetings are private and confidential.

As a diverse community of believers, we respect each person as a unique reflection of God's presence in our midst. We commit ourselves to being a community of care, support, formation, reconciliation, and witness to justice with and among gay and lesbian persons, parents, family members, and friends.

We teach that all love comes from God and focus on helping people reconcile their faith with their orientation. We provide a safe space for discussion, healing, and prayer. Together we reflect on Scripture and listen to the lived experiences of gay and lesbian persons and their allies. Contact: Rodrigo rodri_cg@hotmail.com or Cynthia jcynthia@umich.edu

MEALS FOR THE HOMELESS AT MERCY HOUSE

Mercy House, located at 805 W. Huron Street in Ann Arbor, is an oasis of hope for people experiencing homelessness, providing meals, showers, clothing and personal care items. We are looking for individuals who could prepare and drop off a meal for 25-30 people on Mondays or Wednesdays, with a 5:45pm drop-off at the house. Typically, one person provides the main dish, and another provides sides and dessert, but some do both. 13 x 9 aluminum pans work best, as they do not need to be returned and will be reused by the community. (Also accepted are grocery gift cards, in any amount, to buy the ingredients to prepare a meal.)

If you are interested in helping out, please go to the following Sign Up Genius link: <https://tinyurl.com/f6p9p3px>

There you will find open dates as well as menu suggestions and a few other details. Questions? Please contact Sonia soniafrances55@gmail.com

Your generous DSA contribution will support dozens of ministries that help people both spiritually and physically – bringing hope, comfort, and salvation to so many in our diocese.

Further, one-half of all paid contributions received, over and above our parish goal, will be returned to our parish for our local use here at SMSP. You can submit your DSA pledge envelope during Mass this weekend - or take your DSA envelope home to prayerfully consider your gift decision. Those paying by cash or check are invited to return it to our parish office. Those who wish to pay by credit card or electronic funds transfer may enter your gift online at www.dioceseoflansing.org/appeal.

Sunday Readings

JULY 10 – Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Reading I	Dt	30:10– 14
Psalm	Ps	69:14, 17, 30—31, 33-34, 36,37
Reading II	Col	1:15-20
Gospel	Lk	10:25-37

The law of the Lord, the great commandment of love is not something “mysterious” or “remote”. Indeed, it is “very near” to us. Yet how difficult it is so fulfill, being neighbor to whoever is in need. But if we seek God, we must “go ahead and do the same” for we have been created in, for, and through Christ.

JULY 17 – Sixteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Reading I	GN	18:1-10a
Psalm	Ps	15:2-5
Reading II	Col	1:24-28
Gospel	Lk	10:38-42

Abraham, the just and upright man, graciously hosts three visitors. As Mary and Martha host Jesus, he speaks of only one thing as necessary for us who follow him: being open to receive the message and person of Jesus, and being receptive to the “mystery of Christ” as he comes to us through one another.
