Guest Pastoral Perspective

Abby Braun, Campus Minister

I was never an altar server growing up, and I can't quite remember why. Thankfully, I didn't live in a diocese that banned girls from serving at the altar. In fact, my two younger sisters were altar servers at our parish, and to the embarrassment of my parents and me, they would visibly bicker during Mass over who got to wash the priest's hands or who got to ring the bells during the consecration when they served together. In hindsight, maybe I didn't want to be an altar server because I didn't want to be associated with the two of them.

It's more likely, though, that I was intimidated by the idea of altar serving- not only because I would be up in front of a lot of people but also because it required being close to the altar and the priest and the place where all of that mysterious business happens with the bread and the wine becoming the body and blood of Jesus. It meant the possibility of messing up something sacred and holy, and I didn't want to be responsible for that.

The irony of this story is that I'm the one in the family who ended up as a minister in the Church, and not only that, but for many years my primary job was to coordinate Masses and train liturgical ministers. Somewhere along the way, I began to experience what happened at the altar as less intimidating. It began to feel more like belonging to a community and hearing stories that were part of me and gathering around a table with friends. I began to fall in love with the ritual and the reality that Christ is present in the brokenness of bread and the brokenness of people, that we become the body of Christ when we come together and allow our own lives to be blessed and broken open for one another.

I once heard Fr. Greg Boyle, a Jesuit priest who started a remarkable gang intervention program LA, tell a story about a teenage boy and former gang member who was orphaned and invites a group of others who have nowhere to go to spend Christmas day with him. The boys were from rival gangs- essentially enemies- but they spent the day together cooking and eating a turkey. Fr. Boyle connected this story directly to what Jesus did when he celebrated the Last Supper with his disciples, and then he said something that has stayed with me: "Jesus doesn't lose any sleep that we will forget that the Eucharist is sacred. He is anxious that we might forget that it's ordinary, that it's a meal shared among friends."

My sense as a child- that what happens when we gather around the altar is mysterious and sacred and holy - wasn't wrong. The table is profoundly sacred. And it is also profoundly ordinary. We hold those two truths together. And we also remember that Jesus promises to be wherever two or three are gathered in his name. There isn't much we can do to mess that up.

I'd like to invite each of you today to consider any of the reasons you may have kept some distance from the altar. Maybe they are different than mine. Maybe they are good reasons and maybe it hasn't been the right time. But maybe God is inviting you now to come closer - whether as an altar server, a Eucharistic Minister, a reader, an usher, or a greeter. The need for liturgical ministers at St. Mary is great and the time commitment is small. If you'd like to get involved, come to the liturgical minister training session next Sunday or email our liturgy intern, Mary Nachazel at marynach@umich.edu. Thank you all for being a part of the vibrant worshipping community that is St. Mary Student Parish!

Enrich Your Sunday Mass Experience

I have participated in SCC for a couple of years, co-facilitating our intergenerational women's group on Friday mornings. The practice of contemplating scripture daily and then coming together each week to talk about my own reflections and listen to other women's reflections enriches my Sunday Mass experience. SCC excites me to hear what insight the priest is going to share in his homily. Will it be a new perspective or a deepening and clarifying of my own thoughts?

Last fall, my partner, Louis, and I decided to seek out an SCC in which we could participate as a couple. In forming our commitment to one another we knew we wanted God to be the center of our shared life. SCC proved to be a loving, positive tool in realizing that goal.

Our individual readings and contemplations often triggered spontaneous musings over coffee or the lunch table or in the car. The Monday evening gatherings and Sunday homilies gave us more food for thought and those new thoughts generated more dialogue. We feel grateful that our SCC experience has contributed to many God conversations that otherwise might not have happened, helping us to share our deepest selves with one another.

We invite other couples to seek out an SCC and see what gifts are in store!

No One is a Stranger, All Are Welcome

The small church community (SCC) experience has been a gift and blessing in my life.

In addition to belonging to an ongoing group, I have served as a facilitator to an open group, one that is newly formed each season. What I have found is that with the structure of the SCC no one is a stranger, all are welcome to share their journey in faith. We do not walk alone. As SCC members, we come together each week in Lent to pray, reflect and to act upon the upcoming Sunday Scripture readings. We are breaking open the words of scripture for the Sunday's reading by sharing how God is at work in our world, and in our lives and relationships. We receive the assurance that the Holy Spirit and Christ are at work with us as we gather together believing in His name because Jesus told us that "where two or three have gathered together in My name, I am there in their midst."

We are people of community, of the breaking of the bread, and sharing of the Word. What I like about the SCC experience is that during the week, while we form a small church community, we gather together at the end of the week with the larger parish community to again hear the Word proclaimed and to break bread together so that we may go forth to live out what it is we proclaim. The journey makes us one. It is a good thing.

Etta McDonagh-Dumler, a long-time resident parishioner of St. Mary Student Parish and facilitator of a mixed SCC group.

Centering Prayer

Mondays at 6:15 PM

Centering Prayer is a method of silent, contemplative prayer in which thoughts and feelings are stilled as we simply seek to be with God. It is rooted in centuries-old monastic prayer. The book Open Heart, Open Mind by Fr. Thomas Keating, OCSO is a good introduction. We meet Mondays at 6:15 PM. All are welcome. The first Monday of each month is a special introductory session, during which we listen to an audio tape that describes the method of Centering Prayer session. Otherwise, we typically sit for two 20-minute silent prayer sessions with a short meditative walk in between.

Job's cry of hopelessness stands in marked contrast to the hope of those who put their trust in Jesus, who "heals the broken hearted and bind up their wounds." Such are the blessings of the good news.

Wisdom of the SCC* Experience

Being members of and facilitators for a Small Church Community has provided two wonderful gifts. We received spiritual encouragement through sharing personal needs in prayer and discussing questions and desires about our Catholic faith with others. Also, the gift of deeper Christian friendship – with Christ and each other - has come through preparing for and facilitating our SCC group. The desires we shared as a small group and as facilitators opened our hearts and minds to the work of the Spirit within.

The wisdom of the SCC experience is captured well in the words of St. Cyril of Jerusalem (4th century): "In each person, the Spirit reveals his presence in a particular way for the common good."

Small church communities provide a venue for members to see how the holy Spirit is at work in the world around them by way of a modest use of Lectio Divina or the Examen prayer and group discussion of the weekly readings, to live life in a spiritual way. This experience helps one grow closer to God and strengthen their faith. For the group it provides an opportunity to share time, to listen, to help each member discern what the Word might be speaking to them personally, and through this process, to come closer together in a more intimate way. To truly see each other.

—Harry and Jon

Parish Bible Study

Mondays at 7:00 PM

Our Catholic faith teaches that God is alive in the Scriptures. Come discover the Word with us. We practice scripture-based faith sharing in a small discussion group. Discussions are guided by church-approved commentaries, question guides, and the Catechism of the Catholic Church.
