FEAR (NOT) OF THE LORD

By Eric A. Clayton, Deputy Director of Communications Jesuit Conference of Canada and the United States

As an elementary school student learning about the Gifts of the Holy Spirit, I always found myself stumbling over the seventh gift: Fear of the Lord. A frightening gift, to say the least. The other gifts — wisdom, understanding, counsel, fortitude, knowledge and piety — seemed expansive, aimed at increasing God's very self alive within us. Filled with these great gifts, we were then sent out into the world to do God's good work.

Fear, on the other hand, is paralyzing. Fear keeps us from flourishing. Fear doesn't send us out; fear closes us in. That's not what God desires, as Pope Francis so beautifully taught: "[Fear of the Lord] does not mean being afraid of God: we know well that God is Father, that he loves us and wants our salvation, and he always forgives, always; thus, there is no reason to be scared of him!

Somewhere along the way, my catechetical books began to replace Fear of the Lord with Wonder and Awe. In truth, no matter how this particular gift is articulated, the underlying point is the same: God is so great, so far beyond our wildest imaginings, so mysterious and wondrous, that the only proper disposition with which to approach God is one of profound amazement, awe, wonder. If there's anything to be afraid of, it's that of being separated from God's great love. We recognize how utterly, how necessarily dependent upon God we truly are, and so we stand filled with both trepidation and delight that God continues to draw us near.

And God does draw us near. Jesus himself comes to the apostles across the raging sea. "Take courage, it is I; do not be afraid." (Mt 14:27) And when Peter questions Christ's presence, Jesus doesn't say, "Cower at my greatness!" He does not say, "Keep quiet, you fool!" He doesn't say, "Get out of my sight, you scrap of dust!"

No. Jesus says, "Come." Jesus invites Peter — invites us — to draw ever nearer. And when we fail, when we fall short, when the storms of life continue to toss us about, Jesus doesn't dismiss us as too weak, as expendable, as unworthy. Jesus stretches out his hand and catches us.

(This week, you might consider praying with Matthew 14: 22-33 to see what Jesus has to say to you about fear and faith and the storms of this moment.)

The apostles are rightly afraid; the winds and the waves are terrifying. But God does not will that we live paralyzed by fear; rather, God quite literally calls us out from it. How wonderful, how awesome is our God! Recognizing this gift of the Spirit as one of wonder and awe lifts our gaze toward God and God's people. Our spiritual lives are not nourished when we cower in fear; this is not the kind of fear that is of the Lord.

Pope Francis again: "Fear of the Lord allows us to be aware that everything comes from grace and that our true strength lies solely in following the Lord Jesus and in allowing the Father to bestow upon us his goodness and his mercy."

The last many days and weeks and months have been marred by images across our screens and actions undertaken throughout our communities that strike fear into our hearts: fear for ourselves, for our neighbors, for our world and for our future. There are many things to be rightly fearful of, and yet, that fear is not of God. God does not will that God's own people be plagued by a fear that keeps them bound and shackled to a life of hiding and hopelessness. God desires not fear but flourishing.

And so, the question becomes: What do we desire? Do we desire that the People of God — our neighbors, our friends, people near and far, known and not — be condemned to live their lives ensnared by fear? Or, do we desire that which God desires: that each person be granted the opportunity to a life that is full and flourishing? And if so, what do we need to do as a result?

St. Ignatius offers us two standards with which to judge our decision-making; he names them the standard of the enemy and the standard of Christ. For Ignatius these were flags carried into battle; you stood beneath the one to which you had pledged yourself. We might see and judge those standards today by reflecting upon whether we stand beneath a standard of human fear or a standard of human flourishing. But we don't simply stand beneath these standards — we follow them. They set the trajectory for our lives.

Let's turn once more to Pope Francis: "When a person lives in evil, when one blasphemes against God, when one exploits others, when he tyrannizes them, when he lives only for money, for vanity, or power, or pride, then the holy fear of God sends us a warning: be careful! ... May fear of the Lord make [such people] understand that one day all things will come to an end and they will have to give account to God."

There is a less holy text that offers us another helpful trajectory-setting piece of wisdom. Master Yoda — that wizened old teacher of the Star Wars franchise — says this of fear: "Fear is the path to the dark side of the Force. Fear leads to anger. Anger leads to hate. Hate leads to suffering."

How do we respond to fear? Walk with those who suffer — and help bind their wounds. Resist the seductive lure of hate, power, pride, greed and vanity. Quench the flames of anger. And turn to wonder: What does this moment demand of me? How might I act in a way that is reflective of our God? Turn to awe: How wonderfully made is all of creation!

We would do well to remember our God who desires not hate but love, not judgment but mercy, not anger but understanding, not contempt but curiosity, not violence but peace, not fear but flourishing.

DISCIPLE MAKER INDEX SURVEY

The Disciple Maker Index (DMI) survey will officially launch on February 17, inviting our parish community to reflect on our journey to know, love, and serve Christ. The survey will be available both online and in paper form and takes about 10–15 minutes to complete, with all responses remaining confidential. On Sunday, February 22, we will host a special survey weekend with coffee and donuts Sunday Morning, and parishioners will have the opportunity to complete the survey using available computers or paper copies. Thank you for supporting this important step in strengthening our parish and please continue to pray for the growth and mission of our community.

CATHOLIC THINKERS BOOK CLUB

Tuesday February 10 @ 7:00 pm

All are invited to join us on Tuesday Feb. 10th from 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. in the Loyola Room.

Our discussion will be based on "Short Stories by Jesus: The Enigmatic Parables of a Controversial Rabbi" by Amy-Jill Levine. The author, who is Jewish, has taught in many Christian seminaries and universities. In this book, Levine addresses common erroneous, and sometimes anti-Semitic, interpretations of the Parables and challenges us to consider them in their historical and Jewish context. Please read the Introduction and Conclusion and choose at least one chapter devoted to a Parable that you find most interesting.
